What is creativity?

Difficulties for non-Western scholars in humanities and social sciences

- language issue
- hegemony of Western academia
“Race” (Takezawa 2005)

• Debate on the origin of the idea of race

Universal or a modern Western product

Is it true?
Gap

Between academic disciplines especially between hard sciences and humanities/social sciences

Between the Western academia and the Japanese one

The established concept ---narrow range based on Euro-American experiences
There are racial issues in Japan, too.
2001 UNESCO World conference on against racism (Durban conference)

• Transnational ties between buraku kaiho domei and the Dalit in India

Important to put the buraku issue on the international table
• General view →
  a group identified by what are perceived to be physical differences

  However,
  only visible physical differences?
→ based on Euro-American experiences
• How to connect the Euro-American experiences and those of non-western societies such as Japan to develop a more comprehensive idea of race?
What is “race”? (Takezawa 2005)

(1) Racial characteristics are believed to be “inherited” from generation to generation, genealogically mediated by bodies, and determined by the lineage of a group

“cannot be changed”
(2) A strong tendency to exclude the other

A clear hierarchy is assumed between groups
(3) Exclusion and hierarchy in collusion with politico-economic or social institutions and resources

• Race as resistance (RR)
  → proactive resistance of races
“race” in the lower case

• The burakumin in Japan
  Even in pre-modern era, some sources that discussed “pollution” of “eta” (burakumin) existed.

  Discrimination against them was illegally enforced.
Other parts of Asia/Pacific

e.g.
- The pekuchon of Korea
- The Nosu among the Yi
- Toba Batak of Southeast Asia
- The Jews in medieval Europe
Race (in the upper case)

- Historical coevolution
  Numerous publications of books on race

  Johann Friedrich Blumenbach’s five-fold classification Originality of copy

• Not just import and copy but created “originality”, by transforming and incorporating it in their social thought and employing it in internal and external policies while merging it with nationalism or colonialism.
e.g.

• Samuel George Morton of the US
  “variety” → “race”

• nationalism in Japan
Race as Resistance

• W. E. B. DuBois organized the first Pan African Congress in 1900

  • transnational black solidarity
East Asia

• Japan the plan of the Great East Asian Co-Prosperity Sphere

• China superiority of the “Yellow Race”

• Burakumin in Japan
Interconnectedness

• race- Race

race & RR → Race
